

Websites to help you with your state research:

National Geographic Kids

Website: kids.nationalgeographic.com

Look for: Explore

U.S. States

You can search through the page to find your state or search for your state using the search bar

Fact Monster

Website: www.factmonster.com

Look for: The Fifty States

Click on your state

Or search for your state using the search bar

Your state's government website

Most websites include your state name followed by .gov

Example: www.pa.gov

Good luck with your research! Please see Miss Hritz if you have any questions.

Important Reminder: You need a separate citation for each website. So, if you use two different websites, you need to create two different citations.

Scholastic GO! Access

Go to the website: go.scholastic.com

The login information for Grolier Online is:

USER NAME: hcrclibrary

PASSWORD: hcrc9434

Remember:

- You can copy and paste parts of the article into the "Direct quotations" section of your NoodleTools notecard (left side) so that you do not have to go back and forth between the Scholastic GO! database and the NoodleTools website.
- Then write your notes in the "Paraphrase or summary" section of the notecard (right side)
